English language

According to IDO Statutes the official language of the IDO is English.

All judges must speak and understand English or have a proficient English interpreter with them all the times. In accordance with IDO Dance and Dancesport Rules, there must be 7 adjudicators, all from different countries, officiating at IDO World Championship Events.

The "IDO World Showdance- and Tap Dance Championship" are "pure" IDO World event with up to 32 categories in 2 x 6/5 days. There are many more adjudicators needed to ensure excellent judging and an optimum of fairness and professionalism towards the dancers from all continents.

7 judges total for all categories and age groups

The organizer will pay for 7 "judges seats" according to IDO rules (travel, accommodation, meals and honorarium (2x) 5 days).

This allows the participating countries to send more judges to share the privilege of judging at these important IDO World Championships in the erdgas arena in Riesa, Germany.

Example:

Country XXX has one official judging place – XXX sends 6 judges, they share the seat divided like that: 2 judges each for the children, juniors and adults. (example!)

Additional Voluntary judges are very much welcome and needed

Judges from countries who are not requested by the Adjudication committee to send judges, are very much welcome to send voluntary judges. The chairmen of judges will register all voluntary judges and distribute them on the various competitions, always trying to follow their special wishes and suggestions.

No household or family judging

IDO rules prohibit judges judging dancers from your household/family or dancers who you have trained. You are subject to losing your IDO judging license if this rule is not honored.
